News

Larry Gladney (Professor of Physics) to head the FAS committee on communal expectations for teaching and learning

Larry Gladney (Professor of Physics) has been tapped to chair the FAS committee on communal expectations for teaching and learning.

Over the coming weeks, this committee, chaired by FAS Dean of Diversity and Development Larry Gladney, will work to develop a set of communal expectations for FAS teaching and learning that outline principles of mutual respect and understanding for faculty and students in our classroom interactions. The work will be highly collaborative, drawing on and consulting with the organizational structures that give voice to our communal well-being, including the Yale College Council, the Graduate Student Assembly, the FAS Faculty Senate, the residential colleges, and others across campus.
